Judge's quitting stirs quiz

PLEASANTON — Two attorneys who have been taking polls to determine if valley lawyers want Judge William Gale to retire December 31, as he announced, or stay on until the election next June have found opposite results, The Times has learned.

Gale announced his retirement a month ago and set December 31 as the last day. But if he resigns then, Governor Edmund Brown, Jr. can appoint a successor before January 10 and that successor won't have to face an election contest for two years. After January 10, anyone can file for the judge's office and though the law is not clear, a Brown appointee designated after January 10 probably would have to face election next June.

Reportedly there have been suggestions in the valley law community that Gale push back his resignation date to sometime after January 10. It obviously would behoove Republican attorneys interested in the position to try their luck before the electorate since a Democratic governor will likely appoint a Democrat, most probably a liberal Democrat.

The two attorney pollsters (The Times Friday reported a third attorney pollster, but he reportedly hasn't called anyone) came up with widely varied results, The Times learned. The big discrepency may have had something to do with the way they phrased their questions. One attorney, reportedly a Republican, asked the question something like this: "We all agree Judge Gale has done a good job on the bench and shouldn't he stay on longer?" Reportedly 21 attorneys said yes and nine said no.

The other attorney, believed to be a Democrat, asked the question something like: "Should Judge Gale retire on December 31, as he first announced, or later?" Supposedly everyone in the sampling, which was much smaller than the first, said Gale should retire December 31.

Redevelopment agency

Pleasanton may end controversial plans

PLEASANTON — This city's redevelopment agency will vote itself out of business at 7:55 p.m. tomorrow at the Justice Court, but the work of downtown revitalization and other capital improvement projects is still a big concern.

After the redevelopment agency's last meeting, the city council will gavel itself to order and take up a few of the capital improvement projects which the council felt made redevelopment necessary in the first place.

The council will consider whether it will finance water line replacement in Harris Acres and a one-block extension of Peters Avenue with federal revenue-sharing money. The council voted last year to spend the first increment, $36,000, on the two projects, but it was only enough money to do some preliminary studies for the projects. Tomorrow they will determine whether they will commit the second increment — $76,000 — to the same projects. Next year, another $113,000 will be available for the same projects, bringing the three year total to more than $225,000.

The revenue sharing money won't be enough to do many other redevelopment projects, though. The bare-bones budget for needed capital improvements came to $4.5 million. This would have paid for a Las Positas Boulevard overpass ($2.5 million) and various downtown street improvements, including a full development of Peters Avenue from St. John Street to Bernal Avenue.

Citizens Against Redevelopment, which defeated the redevelopment agency, has gone on record as desiring to work with the city council in determining capital improvements priorities and suggesting methods of finance. The Chamber of Commerce, which had a modified redevelopment plan, also has pledged to work on capital improvement priorities and financing. Mayor Ed Kinney, who announced last week he won't seek a second term, has volunteered to lead or serve on a citizens committee which would propose the capital improvement goals to the city council.

When council members consider the federal revenue-sharing money tomorrow, they are also expected to hear a plea for some of it from the Amador-Livermore Valley Historical Society. The society would like funds to acquire land on Ray Street which contains the old Kottinger Adobe, which dates back to the early Spanish settlement of Pleasanton. Once the society acquires the site, it expects to spend approximately $20,000 and plenty of volunteer labor to restore the adobe. The building would house crafts shops so that the original atmosphere would be preserved while obtaining revenue to maintain the building.

Other items on the agenda for tomorrow include zoning ordinance amendments which would allow swimming pool sales and service as a conditional use in the commercial freeway district and would clarify certain permitted and conditional uses in the neighborhood commercial district.

Dublin murder case spurs suit

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The husband of Helga Barte, the German-born Dublin housewife convicted earlier this year in the murder of their two children, filed a $1 million "wrongful death" suit last week against Livermore psychiatrist Dr. Joseph H. Mauritzen.

William Barte alleges Dr. Mauritzen was his wife's psychiatirist at the time of the slayings and knew she posed a threat "to the well being and lives of others, especially her family."

The suit claims negligence in that the danger was foreseeable, "but no warning was given."

It was filed Thursday, two days shy of being exactly one year after the fateful Friday, Dec. 6, deaths.

Dr. Mauritzen and the Del Valle Psychiatrist Clinic are named as co-defendants.

The suit was filed by Oakland attorney John B. Rest, who last New Year's Eve filed divorce papers on behalf of William Barte.

Helga Barte last May was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter in the deaths of their two children.

Six-year-old Craig was found stabbed through the neck, his sister, Nicole, one day shy of her first birthday, drowned in the bathtub of the family's 7331 Hansen Dr. home.

Four psychiatrists testified to the woman's insanity, while one declared her legally sane but very distressed.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Stanley Golde called it a "classic case" of voluntary manslaughter, ruling the then 36-year-old German national "acted out of rage and anger and in effect was killing her husband, who was seeking a separation from her."

She had a one-way ticket to Germany for a flight leaving the day after the murders. The children were not going with her.

Facing a possible 30 years in prison for the double slaying, the German Consulate stepped into the fray and guaranteed psychiatric treatment for Mrs. Barte in a hospital 100 miles from the home of her aging parents.

She was sentenced to 15 years probation and remanded to the custody of the German Authority for Social Welfare. She flew back to Germany in early September.

The suit claims Dr. Mauritzen last treated Helga less than two weeks before the incident.

It claims William has been "deprived of the society, comfort, care, custody, protection, love and affection" of the children.

In addition to the $1 million, the suit asks for funeral and burial expenses, medical, criminal and cleanup costs. No dollar amount has been fixed on the costs.

Trustees OK teaching vice principal posts

PLEASANTON— Six appointments to teaching vice principal positions at Pleasanton School District schools have been formalized with a seventh, at Harvest Park School, expected shortly.

The appointments were made despite concerted efforts by the Amador Valley Teachers Association to have the positions abolished and the teachers affected returned to fulltime classroom status.

Teaching vice principals split their time between teaching and 'administrative duties, the amount of time spent on each varying with each school.

Named to the TVP slots at the last Pleasanton school board meeting were Del Warren, Alisal; Phyllis Clark, Vintage Hills; Ron Dell 'Immagine, Pleasanton; Tom Ingham, Walnut Grove; Kay Bolles, Fairlands; Lee Zachariades, Valley View. All, except Zachariades, held the same positions in 1974-75. The latter replaces Hurshell Culley.

AVTA contended. as stated initially in their meet and confer proposal. that because of economics the district should abolish the position and return the six to strictly classroom assignments.

The TVP incumbents from 1974-75 started the current school year in the positions. A committee composed of administration (central district office and principals), and reportedly teachers, made the selections from those applying.

Still to be selected is a teaching vice principal for Harvest Park. This would be an innovation for the Valley Avenue school has the administration in previous years has consisted of just a principal and vice principal.

The vice principal designation has been changed to "assistant principal".

Thus, if a TVP is appointed for Harvest Park, he or she would join principal Dale Hudson and assistant principal Robert Tanghe on the administrative team.

Warren, the Alisal TVP, was also named to direct the Outdoor Education program this spring.

The program involves fifth grade students going to nature instruction camps for one week at sites in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

In other business, trustees heard a joint report from Gloria Jones, director of pupil personnel services, and Steve Maher, a special education instructor, on the program at Fairlands School.

Mrs. Jones noted that a school appraisal team has been formed at each district school to appraise those students who might be included in special education programs

Maher commented that he sees 10 students who are certified for special education on a regular basis. All are K-5 students.

Joe Buonsante serves as a liaison teacher and resource person.

Maher stated, in concluding his report, that the state "recognizes only about two per cent of the total school population as having learning disabilities."

Neil Sweeney, assistant superintendent for instruction, reported on revising of student report card forms.

He said that a majority of teachers wanted the A through F grading report form continued. Sweeney added that a committee studying report card forms had come up with ones designed for use in grades 1-3 and 4-5.

Open education classes at Walnut Grove and the fourth grade at Alisal use narrative report forms where the teacher writes comments on each student's progress.

Ron Alsup, principal at Pleasanton Middle School, said 7-8 grade report forms are issued on a tri-mester basis. He said mid trimester report card grades are "O", "S" and "U" The sixth grade card is the traditional A-F but provides room for teacher remarks.

Dale Hudson, principal at Harvest Park, said a couple subject areas at his school are marked "pass" or "fail." He told board members that the report card forms were reviewed by a parent advisory committee.

Attorney announces candidacy for Sup. Linscheid's CC seat

Johnson seeks to succeed Edmund Linscheid, also of Pittsburg, who announced recently he will not seek a fifth term on the Board of Supervisors.

In making his announcement, Johnson pledged that he would make county government responsive to the needs of its constituents.

County government "must act in a manner which will assure that all persons served will have the ability to provide input, which will genuinely be considered in any of its decisions," Johnson said.

"Then and only then will it develop programs that are for the benefit of all persons and not just for the chosen few."

Johnson has lived in Pittsburg for the past 13 years with his wife, Linda Mutalo. They have three children, Tracy, 12, Peter, 11, and Ronald, 7.

The fifth district includes Pittsburg, Antioch, Clayton, parts of east Concord, the San Ramon Valley and all of the East County.

Smoking plan eyed at Amador

DUBLIN— Amador Valley Joint School District trustees will decide whether to setup designated smoking areas at district campuses or continue prohibition of smoking at Tuesday night's meeting.

Trustees will convene at 8 p.m. in the library at Dublin High School.

The question was debated at length at last month's meeting but no vote taken. However, the four trustees present appeared split. Wally Decker, the fifth trustee, was absent because of illness.

Valley health unit drives for members

LIVERMORE — The Valley Council for Mental Health, troubled by dwindling citizen participation, has launched a drive to bolster its membership.

Council chairman Clarence Hoenig said at a meeting of the council Thursday night, "There is an ever present need for local advocacy in the area of mental health — not only to add to the services, but to maintain what we have now."

Hoenig and nominating committee members Ann Jolley, Fern Andrews and Don Williams are currently contacting members of the community to seek their active participation in the council.

The nominating committee must come up with three officers and 10 members-at-large to serve on the council in 1976.

Chairman Hoenig has suggested the council invite representatives of each service organization in the valley to attend the council's monthly meetings.

Chamber head's hustle sets goals for success

DUBLIN—Tim Baldwin's meteoric rise to president of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce hasn't been through simple attrition.

True, the 34-year-old bachelor banker assumed the chamber directorship of Nick Kavathas when the affable Nick took a position with a San Francisco newspaper, rose to vice-president when Curt Kinney moved his Wheelways Bicycle Center, and ascended to the presidency when fellow banker George Fallon was taken ill — all in less than a year — but he was elected president at last Monday's board meeting.

So where to now?

"When the president hustles, the board and members do, too," says Valley Bank's Dublin branch manager. "It floats down from the top."

The chamber's committees will be trimmed and reorganized into four, compact groups: community betterment, membership, business promotion and industry.

He can't — and perhaps won't — separate business and the community.

"We've got to tackle the pertinent problems at hand, those facing both the community and our members.

"We've got to be more in tune with the problems of the membership. Make them know we're aware of their problems. And never separate ourselves from the fact that we're part of the community of Dublin."

There's a good year ahead for the chamber, he says, adding it's time to change the chamber's emphasis.

"I'd like them to stand up and fight a little bit. We've drawn new businesses to the area — and we hope to add them to the chamber — and that indicates a continuing faith in the community. Now we've got to find ways to attract more of the same: light industry, merchants ..."

"Personally, I'm disappointed because we have the support of more than 200 businesses, but with a lack of involvement of these members in chamber activities.

"We'll take great pains in finding out how the problem of complacency can be overcome. It's everywhere though, really. In society in general."

And what will happen to Dublin? Is there incorporation in the community's future? Annexation to Pleasanton as recommended earlier this year by county's Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO)?

Tim Baldwin

"Dublin and Pleasanton are like night and day.

"Historically there are three communities and it's like 'never the twain shall meet,' no matter what they say about 200 years from now.

"I think they'd build walls between them before they'd merge," he adds.

Last week's story in The Times pointing to a county study which shows the unincorporated Dublin area turning a net "tax profit" of nearly a half-million dollars for the county has locals talking about incorporation.

Pessimists have argued that Dublin simply does not generate sufficient tax revenues to be self supporting. The study, however, shows the area produced some $972,000 in sales and cigarette taxes and liquor fees last year while costing the county $528,000 for services.

"We'd have to figure out the entire cost of incorporation," Baldwin comments. "Not only the cost of incorporation itself, but of 'maintaining' a city."

The chamber's community betterment committee will study it, just as it studies easements, variances and sign ordinances promulgated by the county.

In fact, the county already forwards such proposals through the chamber for its comment.

But for now?

"It's hard to say. There's not enough information in yet, although on the surface it seems feasible."

Apathy and indolence aren't his traits. His nine years in banking have taken the Michigan native from New York — "What a place. Too hectic. I've learned to stretch out in the valley, to develop myself personally" — to a quiet home in the valley.

"Philosophically, I've got a good year ahead of me. I'm in the bank and it's behind me. The challenge now is to ask (chamber) members and the community what we, the chamber, can do for them."

Valley citizens' group asks voice on Alameda Creek study

A group of citizens known as the Arroyo Heritage Committee has asked to be represented on the Citizens Advisory Committee of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Upper Alameda Creek Urban Study.

The citizens, led by Walt Wood, propose to beautify the Arroyo Del Valle, specifically that area of the waterway along the Main Street bridge in Pleasanton.

But the Corps of Engineers is undertaking a study which may also contain recommendations for the future use and development of the Arroyo. The Corps' study is slated to develop a comprehensive urban water resources plan for the Upper Alameda Creek basin.

"We know that somewhere along the line, we'll have to abide by the Corps' recommendations. What we don't want to see is wall-to-wall concrete, and that's why we want to get involved in the study," said Wood.

At a Wednesday meeting, members of the Arroyo Heritage Committee asked that they be represented on the citizens advisory committee to the urban study.

The Corps will decide whether to approve their participation. The names of twenty-six people from a number of other organizations also have been suggested.

Mun Mar, chief engineer of Zone 7 which is co-sponsor of the Urban Study, said it is the intent of the study to "come up with a viable alternative to deal with the channel in the event improvements are needed to handle increased carrying capacity.

According to Mar, "very little in the way of flood control needs to be accomplished on the Del Valle."

He said, "The chances are the Corps won't spend very much time on the Arroyo." He added it was likely the Arroyo Heritage Committee could "work with the city to plan what it wants for the area without much interference from the Corps."

Mar said the Corps would consider all input into the study. "If there were enough local support for the beautification idea, it's possible that treatment could be incorporated into the plan."

Assault charge reduced on former scoutmaster

PLEASANTON — John Rutter, the former Dublin Boy Scoutmaster, was sentenced to six months of unsupervised probation and assessed $125 in court costs after pleading no contest on Thursday to a charge of simple assault.

The plea was entered before Municipal Court Judge William Gale. The complaint had been amended from battery to simple assault, a misdemeanor.

A charge stemmed from an incident which allegedly occurred June 30, 1974, when a 15-year-old boy was allegedly struck by Rutter in a Murray School parking lot.

Rutter's no contest plea effectively accepts sentence without an admission of guilt.

The $125 in court costs will be taken from the $250 bail Rutter posted in September 1974 when he was arraigned.

A possible modification of sentence will be considered in 90 days, on March 3.

He added the alarm is being checked.

Test scores show Livermore students strong in reading

LIVERMORE — Livermore children are strong in reading and writing by the time they're in sixth grade, getting off to a modest start in second and third grades and slowing down a bit in high school.

That's the general picture painted by the latest school-by-school test scores, released by the Livermore Unified School District as a result of "requests from various sources."

From information which could be disputed (first-grade reading scores, socioeconomic background, pupil mobility). the state Department of Education has tried to weigh each school's scores against the scores of other California schools with the same "background factors." As a result, the state's computer has decided that most Livermore scores fall within normal ranges, with a few exceptions. Notable among the exceptions is Jackson Elementary School, where high-scoring first graders and a high socioeconomic index put the school into competition with other advantaged schools. Jackson scored well below expectation in competition with the other schools, although Jackson's scores were about the same as the district average. The school's 94 second graders answered 73.7 per cent of their reading questions correctly and the third graders scored 88.4 per cent — compared with district averages of 74.2 and 86.1

But moving into sixth grade, Jackson's socioeconomic index was listed at the 80th percentile and the grade 3 achievement index placed Jackson into competition with schools at the 79th percentile. The school's 87 sixth graders got scoree in the 91st to 95th percentiles — well above expectation in the four subject areas tested: reading, written expression, spelling and math.

What do the tests test? In second and third grade: word identification, phonetic analysis, consonants, vowels; vocabulary, denotational, relational, synonyms; comprehension, literal, details, interpretive, details, main idea, study locational. In sixth grade: word identification, vocabulary, comprehension, literal, interpretive, critical, study-locational; sentences, recognition and manipulation, capitalization and punctuation, word forms, language choices.

Also, in the area of mathematics: Arithmetic skills, number concepts, whole numbers, fractions, decimals, geometric skills, measurement and graphs, probability and statistics.

In high school: Reading: vocabulary, comprehension, literal, interpretive, critical, study-locational. Written expression: sentences, recognition and manipulation, capitalization and punctuation, paragraphs, word parts, language choices.

Math' Arithmetic skills, number concepts, whole numbers, fractions, decimals, algebraic skills, geometric skills, measurement skills, probability and statistics.

The state scores come with a warning against letting numbers alone influence the school's educational program. Since the schools teach many areas not covered by the test, teachers and administrators as well as parents should judge whether they want to put more emphasis on the state areas or to stick with the original program.

LAVWA to select finance chief

PLEASANTON — Selection of a finance director and financial consultant heads the lengthy agenda of the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency on Tuesday, Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m., 30 W. Angela St., Pleasanton.

The status of the finance director position vacated upon the death of Newell Cummings will be reviewed. LAVWA project director Daniel Murphy had asked the cities of Livrmore and Pleasanton to lend a member of their financial staff on a part-time basis until the position can be filled.

Livermore is reportedly unable to comply with the request. Pleasanton has not yet responded.

Valley Community Services District may hire the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency finance director on a temporary, part-time basis. It is possible the BASSA director could also assist LAVWA.

After interviewing three financial consultant firms, LAVWA president Lila Euler and project director Murphy have recommended to the LAVWA board that the firm of Stone and Youngberg be hired.

Stone and Youngberg will serve as consultant on the LAVWA pipeline project. Ralph Anderson will develop a phased management program to advise LAVWA on staffing and administrative requirements over the next five to ten years.

The board will also chart arrangements for the public hearing on the environmental impact statement on the pipeline project, to be held Jan. 13 at Shannon Park Community Center.

Solar heat for valley JC campus

A proposal for a low cost solar energy heating and cooling system designed for a 5,800 square foot building at Chabot College's new Valley Campus near Livermore was outlined for South County Community College District trustees last week. (Dec. 2).

Dr. Arthur Deleray, Chabot College Chemistry instructor, formulated the proposal last summer in consultation with officials of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, representatives of the Energy Research and Development Administration, and district architects. Dr. Deleray is the project manager.

He explained that $4,000,000 in federal funds is available for such experimental projects and that application has been made for funds in connection with the Valley Campus project. The application seeks $214,000 from the federal government, with the community college district is expected to put up $402,000. If the $214,000 is granted, some $56,000 is to be allocated to LRL for analytical services involving the solar insulation and weather patterns and collector and building thermal characteristics; $58,000 to architects for architectual engineering services, and about $100,000 to cover components of the system, including monitoring equipment.

Dr. Deleray told the board he was optimistic about the project and felt that the technical arrangements make sense. The project would incorporate new folded concrete building construction techniques having great potential for cost savings. He said further it was proposed to operate the system without a backup heating and cooling supply.

"The preliminary analyses suggest that the climate at Livermore lends itself to this type of operation," Dr. Deleray said.

He added that it appears the solar system would cost $25,000 more than the conventional system with the energy saving estimated at about $2900 per year. He said that on a 20 year amortization schedule at 10 per cent interest, the cost of the solar and conventional systems are comparable.

Under the proposal, solar energy would be used to supply the space heat and hot water needs of the building, while the cold night-time air and evaporative cooling system are used to meet summer cooling needs.

Puppets and children

Simple toys offer simple joys

By REINA WHITNEY

"The puppets really helped me to preserve my sanity." Mae Tilles speaks emotionally about a particularly painful time in her life.

Her 38-year-old son, an astro-physicist, and her four-year-old grandson were both killed in a tragic accident while he and his family were on a holiday picnic on the Oregon coast. A phone call came from a little Livermore boy who had seen her puppets, copied her phone number and called her before she hardly had time to overcome the first wave of shock from this overwhelming personal tragedy.

He just had to have a gorilla puppet for a school play and could she please make it for him? All of her sensibilities told her to say "No" — but his pleading voice was so insistent that she couldn't resist and disappoint him. This was another child — and she, all her life, had devoted her time and energies for children and their needs.

She said "Yes" and got to work designing and cutting a gorilla which she had never done before. Mae, a deeply religious person, knows now that a higher power was at work in keeping her busy when she could have easily been drowned in self-pity.

Mae did another strange thing. She delivered the puppet herself, something she had never done before, and the look of that little boy when he squeeled at the first sight of his gorilla was all the medication she needed to hurdle her trial.

Her bright-felt imaginative puppets that run the gamut from animals to people (all ethnic groups represented) and all the characters from "Winnie the Pooh" are well-known in the Livermore Valley, where they have been sold for years with all proceeds going to NSSF (Nursery School Scholarship Fund).

Now, in time for Christmas, Mae Tilles has launched still another project. She has written a book fetchingly entitled Toy which gives detailed directions on how to construct any number of children's toys with materials that everyone has around their house.

She has illustrated plans for a child's shopping cart made of a No. 10 tin can attatched to an old broomnstick on a free-rolling caster.

The easy-to-handle booklet, illustrated by local artist Virginia Linford, would be a boon to teachers of pre-school and kindergarten youngsters — and for all mothers and fathers of young children.

They'll find many more ideas for toys made of cans, cardboard and cloth, spools, wood, wire, paper and things made of natural objects.

The book will be kept at its special price of $2 until the end of the year and is available at Schlageter's Stationary in Livermore, Plaza Books in Pleasanton, from Muriel Engle (443-3531), Barbara Tuck (846-6031) or any NSSF member.

Again all the proceeds will go to the Nursery School Scholarship Fund. Scholarships for nursery school children is an innovative idea of a group of hardworking, caring women in Livermore who have seen the good work the "Head Start" program can accomplish.

A non-English speaking child is taken into a nursery school program and taught to overcome his language handicap so he can compete on an equal level with the children he will meet when he enters grade school. By requiring the mothers to participate in the program, both sides learn about cultural heritages and influences. Time was, and still is in some of the inner-city schools, when these children have been separated from the others and termed "mentally retarded" just because they couldn't speak English.

Community Association for Pre-School Education is another organization with which Mrs. Tilles has been associated. As a member of that group she has worked to raise funds for 40 children, not only for their education, but in soliciting government funds for medical care and psychiatric aid if needed. Some of the women involved have even gone on to college and have become aides, helpers and teachers with the CAPE program, according to Mrs. Tilles.

In her compassion for these children, Mae has even gone a bit further and established a fund in the name of her deceased grandchild: The Benjamin Tilles Memorial Nursery School Scholarship Fund, which she contributes every year to a needy child. Through her puppets she has been personally able to give as much as $365 a year for CAPE and NSSF since she started the project in 1963.

Her own experience stems from 25 years of being involved with nursery school education. At one time she was a principal in the largest nursery school in the nation at Richmond, Calif., where she oversaw the welfare of 180 children with a staff that worked from 6 in the morning to 7:30 at night.

Mae lives in a comfortable home overlooking the Livermore hills, near the Lawrence Radiation Laboratories from which her husband has recently retired as an electrical engineer. Her 93-year-old mother also lives with the couple and Mae evidently comes by her philanthropic caring naturally. While we were getting acquainted, her mother was busily making crochet-covered clothes hangers to sell so she could donate the money to HER favorite charity.

Mae Tilles has written a book explaining how to make simple toys for children out of materials commonly found at home. Sale of the booklet benefits the Nursery School Scholarship Fund, a cause dear to Mae's heart.

Granada High class needs surplus cameras

LIVERMORE — Remember that camera you bought years ago and never use anymore?

Granada High photography classes sure could use it, and the donation would be tax-deductible, too.

Granada teachers are offering a mini-course called "Snapshot Photography" to give students a knowledge of good picture taking without getting into the technical aspects.

Having a camera is a must for the course, and many GHS students can't take the course because they don't have one.

Generous ex-camera buffs are asked to donate any working camera. The cameras will be used by the students while they are enrolled in the class and will remain in the photography class for future student use.

Drop your camera off at the GHS office, 400 Wall St., or call Bill Spake at 443-5000

E. county hub sites explored

PLEASANTON — Alameda County Supervisor Tom Bates' suggestion of a Bernal Avenue "Fairgrounds" site for the East County Government Center is "strictly out of the question," according to Fair Association Secretary-Manager Lee Hall.

"It couldn't be located on Bernal because of the traffic situation at Fair times," he said, noting a site on county property near Rose Avenue would present the same problem, though not as severe.

Bates' suggestion, which will be studied along with others when the board reviews its $18,000 consultants report prepared by Ratcliff, Slama and Cadwalder next month, is a 20 acre plot ¼ mile east of the intersection with I-680. The consultants map plots two parcels: one butting Bernal Avenue and anoher set back from the main thoroughfare and butting the Arroyo Del Valle.

The second site could be conected with either Rose or Bernal Avenues, or both.

"It' good thing, the county not wanting to spend money to purchase land," said Hall, "but because of the (two week) Fair time activity, it doesn't seem practical to me."

Pleasanton City Manager Bill Edgar said only that it was a "new proposal" that hadn't yet been looked at by the city.

"Where ever it goes, some local agency ought to control its growth," said Pleasaton City Councilman Bob Philcox.

Echoing supervisor Joseph Bort's fears, Philcox added he doesn't feel empty land in the center of the valley — the Santa Rita and Staples Ranch sites — would be appropriate.

Other valley officials, who've asked not to be named, have extrapolated on Bort's fears of a "mini-development" springing up on a remote site.

They agree with Bort that ancillary services — law and bail bond offices, restaurants, etc. — will be put in, but fear that ajoining property owners will petition the county to rezone the newly created prime property for high density, multiple dwellings.

The supervisors agreed at Tuesday night's meeting to hold back on suggestions and criticisms until their January work session.

"I don't care if it's in Livermore or Pleasanton' Philcox said, "just so long as there's a rein on it by a local agency."

Yule toys drive

Students at Wells Intermediate School in Dublin are collecting toys for needy children through next Friday. Students and their families may donate toys with all being picked up on the 12th and taken to St. Raymond's Church for distribution shortly before Christmas. The project is being directed by Wells teacher Judy Bamberger. Eighth grade home room students are competing for points in helping collect the toys. Above, students gather around Christmas tree in Wells library with some of toys collected to date.

Alameda Housing Authority to check south county rents

The Alameda County Housing Authority will conduct a survey of rents in southern Alameda County to prove its point that federal rent subsidies in the Bay Area are too low.

The federal government established the Section 8 rent subsidy program more than a year ago, but housing authorities throughout California have been unhappy with it. The housing authorities, including those in Livermore and Pleasanton, feel that the federal government was unrealistic in its estimation of rents in California.

For example, to qualify for the Section 8 program a three bedroom house cannot be rented for more than $242 per month, including utilities. Figuring about $35 to $40 per month on an average for utilities, that means a ceiling of $207, rent only, for a three bedroom house. Very few three bedroom units are available in the Bay Area at such a low cost, according to Richard Washak, leasing inspection superintendent for the Alameda County Housing Authority.

If the housing authorities can push up the ceilings for the program, many more units will qualify' said Washak. The federal government is agreeable to raising the ceiling if it can get hard data on the rental market in California. Only a survey will supply that data, so the Alameda County Housing Authority decided to ask the prospective renters themselves do the survey.

People needing rental units will go to the units they see advertised, note how many rooms and what amenities are available for the money, and report back to the housing authority. The first 200 persons to seek housing under the Section 8 program will be asked to be the surveyors.

"The more information we can develop for HUD (federal department of Housing and Urban Development) the more impressed they will be," said Washak. He thinks that with many housing authorities taking surveys, it will be relatively easy to convince HUD it should raise the rent ceilings. In fact, Carla Hills, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, already has acknowledged that the rent ceilings are too low, said Washak.

BART extends Monday night service

BART will intensify its night service for this Monday's Oakland Raider — Denver Bronco football clash, it was announced Friday.

The normal evening schedule runs trains at 20 minute intervals on two "X" lines — Fremont-Richmond and Concord Daly City.

But because of anticipated crowds at the football fete, BART will run trains at their peak hour, 12 minute intervals on all three lines.

The intensified service will run until all game fans have left the Coliseum, about 10 p.m., according to BART.

Normal "last train" schedules end transfer locations posted in all BART stations will apply to the special Monday night Raiders game service.

Club launches toy drive

San Ramon-Amador Valley Exchange Club members Bill Foster, Jerry Xepoleas, and Jim Walbolt make the first contribution to the club's toy box at the Bank of America North Pleasanton branch, as toy drive chairman Bill Palmer and Lee Basner trim the tree.

Again this year there will be toys for less fortunate valley children to open on Christmas, thanks to the work of the San Ramon-Amador Valley Exchange Club and donations of area residents.

The Exchange Club has started its third annual toy drive, under the direction of chairman Bill Palmer.

The club has set up toy boxes in bank branches in Dublin' Pleasanton, and Livermore.

"We're hoping people will drop off new or nearly new toys before Dec. 20 so we can get them to the kids for Christmas," said Palmer.

Toys are delivered to the Good Samaritan Center, Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch, and the Children's Emergency Fund.

Exchange member Bill Foster noted the drive has been very successful in past years. "We've been able to collect many toys. Some people have even contributed bicycles which are in good shape," he said.

Free throws fatal as Dons lose

All right, so Skip Mohatt was right, Amador Valley High is not the eighth best team in the East Bay.

Yet.

Amador lost its head, and its basketball opener to visiting Liberty Friday night, 58-55. It was the Lions' fourth victory over the Dons in the last eight years.

And it surely cost Amador the eighth place ranking among East Bay high schools.

But the Dons showed enough of that old-time religion, er, defense, to indicate they'll be around come the league season, and perhaps, playoff time.

In fact the pressing, mauling Dons did enough good things that even Mohatt was pleased. Despite the fact Amador drew even with Liberty in the last four minutes only to fade at the climax.

"They played better than expected," said Mohatt, who felt his team deserved no better than a brief mention in the pre-season polls. "They played erratic in our scrimmages and made a lot of turnovers, but they improved tonight. We had a good press in that first quarter and the kids played good, aggressive defense. But we missed some easy shots and that's one thing you just can't tell about. Some nights you make the shots, some nights you don't. We had to take off the press," Mohatt said, "because we got in foul trouble and some people were getting tired."

Amador's buzz saw defense forced Liberty into 21 turnovers, five induced by the full-court zone press. At times, however, the Dons became destroyers instead of defenders. They set up Liberty for 15 free throws, and that was the difference in the contest. Amador converted just five foul shots.

The press looked devestating for awhile, affecting Liberty more physically than emotionally. But then problems set in for the Dons, problems they'll face all season long, fatigue and fouls if they keep up their brutal pace, fatigue and fouls.

By halftime two regulars, Mike Hill (who had a game-high 21 points) and Dave Van Norden both had three fouls.

Van Norden picked up his fourth in the third quarter, and then was surpassed by another starter, Sam Jorgensen, who fouled out with 5:46 left in the game.

Even center Rob Yackley, who sparked Amador's second-half resurgence, committed a fourth foul by the final quarter.

With Mohatt attempting to patch up graduation damage, he can't afford to lose front-liners. So the intimidating press will become a specialty tool, as it was Friday.

The Dons actually led at halftime, 26-23, and surprisingly, they did it without Yackley. He experienced foul difficulty early, and had just two points to show for two quarters of play.

In the third quarter, however, the 6-5 blond senior poured in 10 points and began pounding the offensive backboards.

That was great, except that Liberty center Rick Howard picked the same moment to catch fire. Howard scored 16 of his 18 total points in the third period, and shot Liberty ahead, 45-40 heading into the final eight minutes.

The Lions stretched their margin to six poings early in the fourth quarter before Yackley and Hill began chipping away.

Rob collected a couple of missed shots by his teammates and translated them into four points down the stretch. Hill caught fire from the corner and around the key and with 0:42 left, Liberty held a tenuous 55-53 advantage.

Liberty's Miguel Pulido hit the first half of a one-and-one situation with 22 seconds remaining for a three-point margin. The clock worked down to three seconds before Hill's baseline jumper made it 56-55, then just one tick later Dave Broussard of the Lions canned a foul shot for the final score.

Howard and Dave Hernandez both scored 18 pohnts for Liberty. Yackley wound up with 16.

He was also the game's leading rebounder with eight. The Dons won the rebounding war, 22-21, and despite missing those layups floor. They threw the ball away 17 times.

Duncan picked on GGC team

Dublin High School graduate Steve Duncan has been named to the Golden Gate Conference all-star football team.

The freshman from Chabot College is the first team placekicker on the 24-man squad selected by conference coaches. The 5-8, 160 freshman was one of the GGC's leading scorers this past season. Duncan kicked two field goals in that game, one a 52-yarder.

The Gladiators, who won the conference championship with just one loss, are well represented on the GGC all-star team.

Their potential All-America wide receiver Tom Ferguson is the winner of the Murius McFadden Memorial Trophy as Player of the Year.

Ferguson caught 53 passes this past season, easily the best in the conference.

Teammate Bill Ackerman, a 6-4, 255 offensive tackle, is the Lineman of the year on offense.

The Gladiators have two players on the All-GGC offense, Ferguson and Ackerman. Defensively they are represented by 6-2, 235 lineman David Shaw.

Second team berths went to offensive lineman Rei Dela Figaniere and linebacker Benny Rayford.

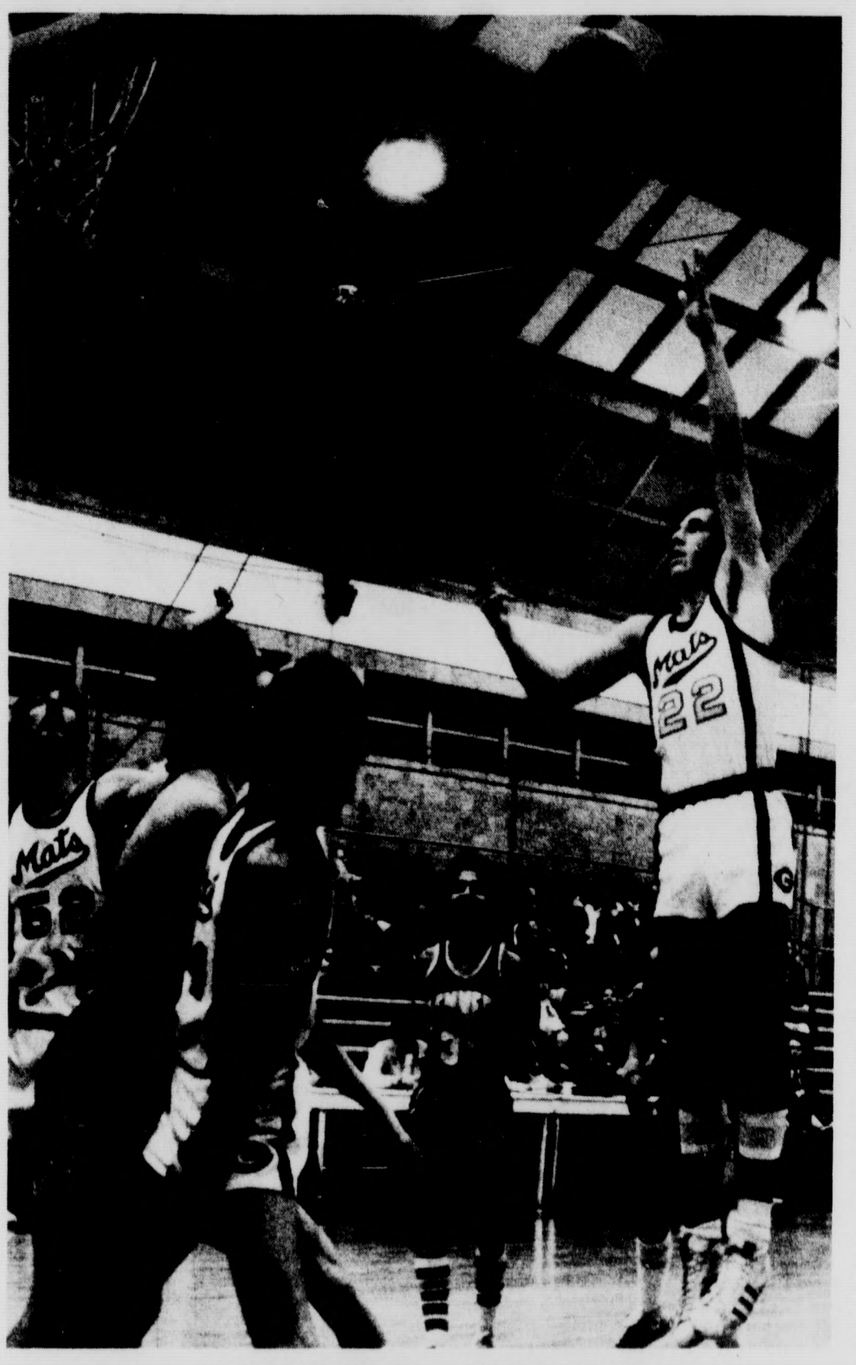
Granada depth, speed tops Titans



MAT PLAYER LAYS THE BALL IN FRIDAY NIGHT
Mike Fracisco (22) fires over Titans

First it was football. Now it appears that Granada High School is developing a basketball powerhouse to go along with its East Bay Athletic League football champions.

"Win, that's the only way to go," said Vance Rushing, Granada running back turned guard for the basketball season, after the Matadors had throttled Kennedy of Fremont 87-69 Friday night at the Alameda County Fairgrounds.

"We did it in football and we are going after the same goal in basketball," Rushing went on. The stocky junior and his teammates used a blistering offensive attack to destroy a much smaller Kennedy team.

Kennedy's tallest player was about 6-foot-3 and he was not match for Granada's 6-foot-7 pivotman Lee Brennan. The Granada center scored 13 points and picked off nine rebounds in the victory. Brennan and his teammates dominated the boards against the Titans.

However, the secret to Granada's strength was its great depth. The Matadors had 12 men in the scoring figures, led by 6-foot-3 forward Scott Campbell with 22 points. He had field goals and made four free throws in five attempts.

Junior forward Joey Wujek added eight points and played a solid game on the boards. He also showed an ability to shot from either the inside or outside against the Kennedy defenders.

The Titans did throw a brief scare into Granada's hopes late in the third quarter when they pulled to within 14 points, 61-47 with a minute left. However, Granada coach Pat Fracisco put his starting five back in and the Kennedy rally was quickly snuffed out.

The Matadors canned 26 points in the last quarter to turn the game into a complete rout. Kennedy put 22 points of its own through the hoop in the last period but to no avail.

Granada had taken a 23-15 lead after the first period despite the hot shooting of Kennedy's 5-foot-6 guard Jorge Alfaro, who was a deadly shot from the outside. He made 12 of his 17 points in the first quarter, all on outside jumpers. However, no other Kennedy player was effective in the early going as the Granada fast break was too much for the Titans.

Granada built its lead to 48-28 at halftime despite the fact Fracisco substituted liberally. Rushing, John Walden and Jeff Evert all played well in relief of the starters.

Rushing canned eight points despite playing less than half the contest. Evert showed a nice outside touch in scoring seven points.

Fracisco seemed happy if not ecstatic after the easy non-league victory.

"It's hard to tell how good we are after a game like this," he said. "It's still pre-season so it's really too early to see how we are progressing."

When asked how he felt about the Matadors' apparent balance and depth, Fracisco added "It looks like we may have depth after tonight's game. At least I hope we have some depth."

And if Friday night's contest is any indication, Granada's future opponents can expect to have plenty of "depth" thrown at them.

Cowboys on win streak

When Livermore High School lost ace Ed St. Clair to graduation last June, many observers felt the Cowboys would have an off year this season.

However, the 1975-76 version of the Cowboys basketball team has other plans. Friday night the Cowboys put on a blazing shooting exhbition in the second half to rally and beat the host Irvington Vikings 70-51.

For the second game in a row hot shooting Ted Wood led the Cowboy scorers.He made 23 points, most of them coming in the last two periods.

Wood, an All-EBAL player last season, was assisted in the scoring department by 6-foot-4 senior center Curt Groth with 16 points and junior Mark McGreary with 12 markers.

According to Cowboy coach John Jones, the winners did not do anything different in the second half to turn the game in Livermore's favor.

"We had been pressing the whole game and in the second half it just took its toll on them," (Irvington) he said. "I was impressed with them, they had a good team. We just played really good defense."

Jones feels this year's Cowboy team does not have anoutstanding player like St. Clair but he thinks it has other attributes.

"We have been working really well as a team," he admitted. We have some good outside shooters."

Outside of Groth, the Cowboys have little height with no one else over 6 foot in the starting lineup. However, what they lack in height the Cowboys more than make up with hustle as their 2-0 non-league record shows.

"I think our team can develop into a title contender by league time," Jones said. "Amador and Granada have some top talent with a lot of players back but we are improving."

Matadors stun Livermore

There are several things in life one can expect to occur with a great deal of frequency: It will rain in Seattle, the sun will rise in the morning — and powerful Livermore will beat Granada in a soccer match.

Well, no one should dispute the first two statements but the Matador soccer team sure made the third theory seem absurd Friday afternoon at Livermore. The Matadors got off to a fast start and held on to defeat the Cowboys 3-2 in the second East Bay Athletic League match of the season for both teams.

In other EBAL matches Friday Dublin knocked off Foothill 4-0, San Ramon and California tied 1-1 and Amador beat Monte Vista 4-1.

The Granada win was only their second in eight years against Livermore. The Matadors are now 2-0 in EBAL play.

Livermore, 1-1 in EBAL action, started out the match in slow fashion and watched the Matadors zoom past them for two first half goals while scoring none of their own.

Reserve Manzar Iqbal scored the first Granada goal halfway through the first period on a 10-yard shot through the Livermore nets. Shannon Estill got an assist on Iqbal's goal.

Before the Cowboys had time to catch their breath Granada had another goal when wing Dave D'Ambra forced his way through the Cowboy defenders and kicked the ball in from five yards out.

Apparently the halftime intermission had some positive effect on the Cowboys because they came out flying in the second period. Wing Ken Watts scored the first Cowboy goal on a penalty kick.

After both teams struggled back and forth across the field the Matadors iced the match with a goal by Keith Teel from the corner. Estill got his second assist of the match on Teel's goal.

The Cowboys concluded the match scoring with about three minutes left when Wes Settle banged one in from 10 yards out. Granada then controlled the ball in Livermore territory until the clock ran out.

Prehaps the key to Granada's win was their outstanding defensive play. They held Watts, one of the top players in the EBAL, to just one goal.

"Yes, we did play well defensively," admitted Granada coach Bill Coupe. "We put Jim Lennon on Watts and he did a very good job staying with him the whole match."

Indeed he did. Watts seldom got in good position for a goal and the main reason was Lennon.

Robin Sherwood sparked the Dublin win with two goals in the first half. The win gives the Gaels a 2-0 EBAL mark and sets up their key match with Livermore Tuesday. Jeff Muslow and Matt Bryant scored the other Dublin goals.

Joe Correia's three goals led Amador to a 4-1 victory over Monte Vista on the Dons' field. Casey Clark scored the other Don goal while Leonard Lavezzo scored the Mustang goal. Amador is unbeaten in EBAL action.

San Ramon broke a 16-match EBAL losing string with its tie to the Grizzlies. Both teams played well on defense and the match saw a lot of rugged action. San Ramon's goal was scored by Dan Chevez and Roger Hurlow made the California goal. Wolf goalie Bill Sheldon had 16 saves and Mike Daugherty had 14 saves for the Grizzlies. Both goals were scored in the first half.

Bjorn Borg beats Ashe

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Teenager Bjorn Borg upset Arthur Ashe and three-time champion Ilie Nastase toppled defending titlist Guillermo Vilas Saturday, setting up an all-European final in the $100,000 Masters tennis tournament.

Borg, playing up to expectations of the partisan crowd of 4,200 at Stockholm's Kungliga Hall, smashed Ashe 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2. Ashe, the Wimbledon champion from Miami, appeared lethargic and off the form that had made him the most impressive player of the prestigious tournament.

Nastase, managing to cool his usually fiery temper, eliminated Vilas 6-0, 6-3, 6-4 in a remarkable comeback after he was disqualified from his opening-round match with Ashe last Sunday for unsportsmanlike conduct.

Against Vilas, a young Argentinian, the Romanian produced some of his fnest tennis and said after he match that it was his best performance since 1973, the year he won the French and Italian titles.

Borg will try to win $40,000 and the title in his native Sweden when he meets Nastase in the final on Sunday, culminating a year-long, world-wide series of tournaments in which the top eight points leaders advanced to the Masters.

Wolves edged

Harry Ells High, keeping in mind of last year's last second 42-41 loss to San Ramon, built up an eight point lead midway through Friday afternoons' encounter with the Wolves and took a 68-62 win over the Danville school.

San Ramon	19	16	15	12—62

Grizzlies beaten

California High School saw its dreams of a Riverbank Invitational championship disappear when Summerville edged the Grizzlies 65-61 Friday night.

The Grizzlies played for the third-place trophy last night. Results of that contest were unavailable at press time.

In Friday night's game the Grizzlies missed a field gold attempt in the last 30 seconds and the Summerville team pulled out the win.

California trailed throughout most of the contest but pulled to within two points in the last minute of play.

American champs

American High School of Fremont won the second annual Granada Invitational Wrestling Tournament last night with a convincing 42-15 victory over the host Matadors.

Despite the loss, Granada had two individual champions in heavyweight Ron Freeman and 145-pounder Jim Laflin. Mt. Eden of Hayward took third in the tournament.

Taxpayers react to BART nonsense

A housewife demands: "Who can we write to?"

A Scout executive stops by to report, "I ride BART almost every day, and I'm disgusted by what I read about those guys."

The calls have been coming into this newspaper at a steady clip since the revelations of a Times staff reporter on the expense shenanigans of one or more of "those guys" on the Bay Area Rapid Transit board.

People are irate. They demand action. "We're tired of these politicians who get themselves elected to some office, and then promptly forget why they were elected." That comment perhaps best sums up the feeling of many, within the readership of this one newspaper.

They can spend $2 billion of our money for a 21st century system that functions at 19th century efficiency; they can even drain millions in tax dollars from those "fringe areas" which are provided little or no service for that investment. But when the BART bureaucracy starts adding Paris padding to its expense account on the pretense of somehow better serving us Bay Area hicks, then it's time the hicks rebelled.

"So what can we do?" is the rebel's call. To which Justin Roberts, staff writer for The Times' newspapers who first uncovered those expense account violations replies ... "Write your district attorney. That's where the accounts are under probe, and that's where any action against one or more BART directors must start.

In Alameda County, write to: District Attorney Lowell Jensen, Court House, Oakland; in Contra Costa County, write District Attorney Wm. O'Malley, Court House, Martinez.

And you might send a copy of your letter to this newspaper. It helps us to know that a newspaper's efforts to uncover abuse of public office are supported by the people who are, in the final analysis, the only answer to all such dirty tricks.

. . .and one answer

There are others of you who are still wondering "Who put this whole BART thing together in the first place, and why?

We are indebted to the San Francisco Examiner for as clear an explanation on that score as anyone has yet offered.

The Examiner was reciting "The City's" current hassle with BART over "who really owns the Muni Railway tunnel under Market Street?" You will recall that BART built that massive underground system, at our expense, for the exclusive use of San Francisco's street cars.

When BART's leadership suggests that "we may want that street car level back some day, for our use," the Examiner editorial writers reply with this most logical of political answers:

"The construction of the level by BART at BART's expense, for the sole and exclusive use of Muni, was part of a basic three-county agreement that created the BART system. This agreement was essentially a political pact in which each of the three counties was allocated specific BART facilities."

The Examiner goes on to remind us that San Francisco got its mulit-million dollar subway gift "in the same way" that Alameda County was given that Fremont rail extension and Contra Costa County gained its Concord line."

Not sound engineering logic, and not even based on projected traffic flow. No, BART was conceived and its system laid out on a "You scratch my back, I'll scratch yours" exchange that could make the Teapot Dome Scandal look like a game of penny ante Jacks.

So, while you're contacting the district attorney about that alleged $488 expense account abuse by one BART director, you might also ask, "Is anybody following up on the $2 billion boondoggle foisted on three counties just to save downtown San Francisco and Oaktand, but that apparently won't even accomplish that?"

Letter to the Times

More on sainthood

Editor, The Times:

It isn't that I disdain Sainthood, nor am I too modest to admit that all of the best virtues of saintliness abide in me, but I am honest, in my fashion, and I don't want to be lofted into those empyrean heights upon false wings. So I deeply regret that I shall have to reject the well-meant nomination of Mrs. Clarsen of my nomimation to that sacred order. (VT-PT Dec. 3.)

In the first place, my earlier suggestion that the Hearst and the Fromme girls be cannonized was largely a gesture in support of the feminine movement. I was happy to note that my letter was signed (Mr.) Vene Smeltzer when it appeared in print. Obviously, I couldn't qualify along with Patty and Squeaky...

Besides, I have never suffered any agonies even remotely connected with my religious faith, not since at age 13 I permanently renounced Christianity when I read in horror how vindictive and unforgiving that Jehovah of the Old Testament was, bringing about the death of millions by fire and brimstone and assorted plagues... The Christ of the New Testament was better, but he was only the Son of God, and nobody tried very hard to follow his teachings.

In later years I learned about other gods, Allah, Budah and Brahma, but was impressed with none of them, nor their prophets; in fact, the only entity whose worship brings any warmth is the Sun, and, as far as I know, helioatry is its own end and needs no reward in the hereafter like sainthood.

And so, no martyr, I shall probably never meet with Saints Joan, Patty and Squeaky at the throne of the deity. I'm not unhappy.

(Mr.) Vene Smeltzer
Livermore

Are they still at it?

The week in retrospect

Fair parade saga

The time has come for the city, chamber and Fair Association leadership to sit down, frankly detail how much money and effort is needed and how much can be given in order to continue the Alameda County Fair Parade in 1976.

I've been taken aback at the lack of forthrightness of those involved, and the seeming attitude of "let's put off till next month what can be done today."

I would think the Fair Association management, chamber and city would know by now how much it takes to conduct a Fair parade and how much each group can afford.

According to figures provided by Lee Hall, secretary-manager of the County Fair Association, Ben Fernandez, current president president of the chamber of commerce, the 1975 Fair parade cost $4,200 with the city kicking in up to $300. The chamber did not contribute this year. In past years, the chamber and city gave had agreements to provide "up to $300" each in support of the Fair parade.

A fourth party in this question, and one that has given considerable support in the past, is the Pleasanton Jaycees group.

A perusal of the "P-Town Crier," the Jaycee publication, notes that the Pleasanton group anticipates an income of "$300" from the Fair parade and an expense of "$185." Under the ways and means section of the 1975-76 budget summary, they list prospective income from running of parking lots at "$9,000" and expense for same of "$3,000." The parking lot concession is run during the time of the Fair by Jaycees.

We mention these internal affairs of the Jaycees to underscore their strong and continuing part in community activities.

Obviously, a civic group must have money-makers to underwrite the projects they take part in or conduct.

The Pleasanton Jaycees are one of the most active in th s regard in the entire Bay Area— being incolved in untold youth and senior citizen events as well as programs of total community interest.

The point here is that the Jaycees should be party to any organizational and financial talks concerning the Fair parade.

It should also be known that the Pleasanton Bicentennial Festival Committee is considering financial support for the four-decades-old event, held each year in late June to signal opening of the Fair.

At a meeting Friday, the Bicentennial group voted to give a portion of proceeds from an upcoming event to the parade in 1976.

At the present moment, that parade is STILL very much in the balance.

This precarious state was first learned more than a month ago when the entertainment and special events committee of the Fair board recommended discontinuation of the parade.

When the recommendation reached the total Fair board, the membership moved to hold it in abeyance and asked Hall and committee members to meet with the chamber and city in hopes of rekindling support for AT LEAST a 1976 bicentennial year parade.

That is where the matter stands at present.

Fernandez and Jaycee reps met earlier in the week and decided, in affect, that "parades are great and everything possible should be done to continue the Fair event."

Fernandez told this writer Thursday he anticipated meeting with Fair and city reps by Tuesday, in advance of the monthly Fair board meeting that night.

This writer fervently hopes, as do hundreds of others in the valley — including merchants— that this issue can be resolved as soon as possible.

But the prime item needed now is a candid and forthright stating of what is needed (and who can supply it) to underwrite the Fair parade for 1976.

And, one more thought.

We have heard it expressed on numerous occasions that Fair parade organizers must restructure the parade and make it more entertaining.

I would not propose a re-run of the "Good Times" parade but something less sterile than past Fair parades would draw many more people to this community.

Perhaps a restructuring of the parade would cut costs in some areas. It's worth looking into.

Where are the trails?

Citing an East Bay Regional Park District map which, it says, shows "a beautiful hiking and riding trail" linking four Southern Alameda County parks, 32 persons have signed a petition demanding "where is the trail?"

The parks shown on the map are Lake Chabot, Cull and Don Castro Regional Recreation Areas and Garin Regional Park.

"For the past 10 years," the petition preamble states, "we have been hearing about this beautiful hiking and riding trail that is planned to link the four regional parks in our area with our local trails. We feel that now is the time to see some action on the development of this trail ..."

The petition, signed by persons who style themselves as "trail users and supporters of EBRPD," asks the question, "Has the East Bay Regional Park District forgotten that trail users live in Southern Alameda County too? We want access!"

The movement might be expected to gain support from throughout the East Bay, particularly in the Sunol-to-Castro Valley portion of that long-promised hiking trail.

round the town

It was while I was shaving. KCBS was providing me with an uninterrupted flow of news to start off my day.

"Consumer advocates charge that the standard of quality in the nation's manufactured goods has declined markedly in the last five years," the voice was saying. It was just then that I cut myself. Turned out the blade was defective.

"You're bleeding," the lady on the other side of the breakfast table advised me. I remarked as to how I was already aware of that wound, and added a comment on my pain and suffering. "It's getting all over the collar of that clean shirt," was her only response. So much for sympathy.

"The quality of razor blades, as with everything else in this blessed land, is not what it used to be'" I asserted, drawing upon my new font of KCBS wisdom. "It's a wonder to me that somebody up there doesn't understand what is happening to us," I added, warming up to my subject.

"The toast is burning," she said.

I rescued that morning's ration of black toast, while observing that just one slice was burned to a crisp. The other slice was as pale as a Roman virgin.

"Even this blessed toaster doesn't function like a toaster should," I said, with authority. "I have a good mind to take the thing back to where it came from."

"You bought that from Fritz Andresen, and Fritz has been dead for a dozen years or more," she reminded me. "I suspect the toaster is simply worn out."

"It isn't worn out at all," I protested. "It is simply operating at 50 percent efficiency. One side burns, one side does little or nothing. A good repairman could probably put the thing right in a jiffy."

"If you can find a good repairman," she said. True. The quality of our life style is only as good as the talent available to keep America in repair. I made a note of that line on my napkin for future editorial referenre.

"If and when you find that repairman, you might remember that our washing machine has been acting up," she advised me.

"You mean our brand new washing machine? What's wrong with it?"

"It's not brand new," she said. "At least five years old, und that's probably the trouble. The machine gives up about the time the warranty runs out."

What kind of standard is THAT for our nation? A $300 washing machine that you have to write off after just five years on this earth! I scribbled more editorial thoughts on the napkin.

"While you're in a mood to put the world in working order, do you think you could get the car into Pete's garage today sometime?" she asked I dared not ask why I should haul that $6500 mechanical marvel back into the car hospital, again. She didn't wait for my question.

"The door handle keeps falling off, and the window won't close on the driver's side," she announced.

"This month it's the door handle and the window," I said, angrily. "Last month it was the radiator, the month before that the air conditioner went on the fritz. How can a brand new, $6500 car start falling apart? Is that legal??"

"We bought it almost five years ago'" she said. I know, I know. The warranty has run out, along with the engine.

"I'd like the car back by tomorrow morning so I can make a quick run into the city," she states. Those "quick runs into the city" make me nervous. Not for her safety, but for our budget.

"I just want to return my coat to the store," she explains. The new coat?? Why, pray tell, return that thing of beauty to its maker? "One of the buttons is coming off, and I won't accept a brand new coat with the buttons coming off," she advises me.

"We laid out enough cash for that coat to more than buy a new set of matched palmer woods," I noted, placing my values in their proper perspective. "And now you tell me the buttons are falling off," I thundered, whilst fiddling with the toaster intensity button. Satisfied, I popped in a single slice, a replacement for that other one destroyed in the fire.

"I don't like to have you running back and forth across the Bay," I admonished her, but then adding, "if you feel you must go, would you take back that new pair of shoes for me? First time I tried them on the leather lining inside split."

I had just about resolved to add a thought on my napkin about $60 shoes that come with split lining, when my editorial processes were interrupted by a new announcement.

"The toast is burning ," she said.

Lighter Times

Many of us realize that the physical transition we must make from our relaxed weekends to the regular schedules of the nine-to-five o'clock work week are demanding. But until now, no one has registered any objective observations about what our bodies are really like as we progress from Monday through Friday. At last, science fans and office workers, I have made these scientific observations about myself. Below I share them with you.

Monday. Subject able to form small sentences, sometimes with verbs or adjectives missing. Listeners can usually fill in the blanks accurately. Lip separation adequate, but not good Vocal range: two to three feet in morning, increasing to four or five feet in the afternoon.

Tuesday. Color returning to face, slight notes of cheer in voice, able to turn head from left to right in 130 degree arc, serious look in eyes, though not much activity in thought compartment till about 2 p.m. Lip separation good, though sometimes slur words as tongue trips over teeth.

Wednesday. Eyes wide open for first time, hair combed, moderate, steady tone in voice, able to say "hello" to three or four co-workers, can push all the right buttons on telephone, able to spell own name correctly 10 times out of 10, can ennunciate name for switchboard operators so that five out of 10 get it right the first time. Able to recall score of Monday night football game. Can type at top speed with few errors.

Thursday Wake up three minutes before alarm clock goes off, cook breakfast first time in the week, wash dishes before going to work, make seven phone calls in the morning, regale co-workers with four or five jokes, read half of the San Francisco Chronicle columnists at lunch time, spend evening cheering up friends.

Friday. Wake up full hour before alarm goes off, greet neighbors cheerfully, warm up car engine for a full minute, drive relaxed to work, say "hello" to everyone I see, make 15 phone calls in morning, read three-fourths of the San Francisco Chronicle columnists at lunch time, write enough stories for two papers, leave work hour early

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

"Tell me a story," she said.

She was dewy eyed and not quite crying but right on the edge of it so I thought maybe I should tell her a story even if it was not a very good one.

The rains had come late in November and the first part of December the way they did 34 years later and the hills behind Cupertino and Los Altos were bright green and polished by the morning dew when I drove through them on the back road to Stanford.

I drove the way I always did, fast through almost non-existant traffic, scarcely touching the highway, a little late and trying to make up time while I circled back around the little lake they call Lagunitas and then in a tight U to the dormitory.

She was waiting by the steps of the dorm and climbed into the car without saying a word. We drove behind the golf course and through Searsville and the Portola Valley, up to the Skyline and then throuoh La Honda and Pescadero and the coast road, turning north toward The City.

For a while when I drove through Searsville she seemed puzzled and always on the edge of tears. Then she realized I had been late and had not seen a newspaper or heard the radio so she told me wha had happened and cried a little in the telling.

For a long time we did not talk while we drove along the coast road, dipping up and down the hills, not fast any more because she was with me and I was no longer in a hurry.

Even on Sundays in those days there was hardly a car on the road that far down Highway One and there was some kind of magic between the hills and the ocean and reality that held off the truth and the shock and the horror of the news and let us accept it a little more easily.

Then she asked me to tell her a story and I did because it was better to tell a story than the truth that day and I always had a little knack for that sort of thing which she liked and enjoyed.

Probably it was not a very good story, it could not have been coming off the top of my head that way, but it started well and said what she wanted to hear and that was the important thing.

I talked all the way through Half Moon Bay and while we drove past Devil's Slide and through Sharps Park and almost to the Cliff House where we stopped for lunch.

We did not eat very intelligently, as a matter of fact we took great pride in the way we almost never did and that morning we outdid ourselves.

We ate cold lobster and drank sparkling Burgandy for the meal which was more breakfast than lunch for the two of us and when we were through we stood for a long time on the platform above the surf watching the seals play in the brine and bask, higher on the rocks, in the winter sunlight.

Then we went to see her friends, her super intelligent Phi Beta Kappa friends in Berkeley and listened to all the talk we knew we would hear and bore it rather well I thought, considering the way we both felt.

Believe it or not they served hot cakes and coffee for dinner and that was almost too much so we stopped at the Claremont before crossing the bay and had a couple of drinks to take the taste of syrup from our mouths.

We sat in the big lounge holding hands and looking over the lights, bright and peaceful in the clear December night and wondered how long they would stay bright.

Then we drove back across the bridge and up to the Skyline and wound our way along the twisting road through Woodside and on to Searsville because that was the shortest route to where we were going.

When we finally parked where we always did, in the little, deserted lane behind the golf course, she said, "Tell me a story again." I could feel she was close to crying then so I told her the story again, almost word for word the way I had that morning and she listened to it and I could feel the edge come off her sadness.

Probably it was not too good, but I liked the beginning and saved the words and used them many years later in what was probably a very bad piece of doggeral.

"It began a long time ago," I told her. "So long ago that yesterday was a tiny spark thrown free from a flame in space."

Then I told her of a love that was born with the beginning of time through all would last through all eternity.

When I was finished we both believed the story and felt a lot better and almost forgot the date was December 7, 1941 and that a very terrible thing had happened to all mankind that morning.

Misinformation on hepatitis

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please answer some questions on hepatitis? There is so much of it around now and also a lot of misinformation about it, too. I would like to know what hepatitis is. Why is it that medication is not given for it, just rest and good food? Is it contagious until the patient's blood tests are normal? Why does it take so long to recover from it? Does smoking slow down the recovery? Why is it that even an occasional beer is forbidden during recovery? How soon after recovery can a person have an occasional beer?

DEAR READER — Part of the confusion results from failure to separate the many different forms of liver disease a person can have. Hepatitis only means inflammation of the liver and does not tell you the cause.

You can have hepatitis from infectious agents, and at least two different forms of a virus can cause viral hepatitis. You can also have hepatitis from chemical toxins. And, hepatitis may be a complication of several different infectious diseases.

The most common forms of hepatitis are caused by viruses. Most of the medicines we use in infections are antibiotics and are not effective against hepatitis viruses. In many instances about all that can be done is to minimize the damage to the liver and wait for the disease to run its course. The length of time that takes depends a lot on the individual, but it is not just a two-week affair as with the common cold.

It is possible that a person infected with viral hepatitis will harbor the virus for a lifetime. Such an individual may not be contagious unless his blood is used for a transfusion, or in the preparation of serum. Anyone with a history of infectious hepatitis should never give blood. The blood is tested at the bank for any evidence of such a previous infection.

There is no direct evidence that smoking is harmful to recovery from hepatitis, but it can't be helpful and even in a healthy person it causes some harm. If I had my choice, no one would smoke.

There is abundant evidence that alcohol is a toxin to liver cells. This is not dependent upon a poor diet or anything like that. It is a direct toxic reaction to alcohol. Obviously, when the liver cells are already damaged and trying to recover, you don't want to take a chemical that damages the liver.

Alcohol should be strictly forbidden until there is good evidence that the liver has completely recovered. This is judged by various tests of liver function and other clinical information the doctor gets from his examination. The length of time it takes for the liver to recover from hepatitis varies greatly, and depends also on how much liver damage has occurred. Obviously, it can be months before a person with severe viral hepatitis can safely drink alcohol again. And, if there has been extensive liver damage, any amount of alcohol poses some hazard.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "We have been getting so many questions about the standard American forcing two bid that we might well discuss that bid."

Oswald: "The great advantage of that bid is that it is so nice when you get one."

Jim: "There are three general requirements. The first is a hand that will make or almost make game by itself. The second is slam possibilities and the third is enough high-card strength so that you fear a one bid may be passed out."

Oswald: "South has 20 high-card points and nine winners. He decides to open two spades. North raises to three and South sees no harm in cue bidding his clubs to see what North will do."

Jim: "The rest of the bidding is worth study. North shows his diamond ace and second-round heart control after South cue bids in that suit. South's six-club bid is an attempt to get North to show second-round diamond control, but North just bids six spades."

Oswald: "Six makes easily and the parnership has kept out of the impossible grand slam."

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader wants to know the worst bid made in a slam auction.

There was no particular worst bid, but one player went through a series of complicated bidding maneuvers when he could have simply raised his partner's suit. It was failure to use "KISS" (Keep it Simple Stupid) that led to the trouble.
